If the government has the power to draft your and my boy and put him in the army where he is likely to be killed, and if it can do this without the consent of the individual boy, we cannot see why this same government cannot draft wealth, factories, vital materials and everything else vital to the national defense.

Are property rights superior to human rights? Why should the government draft one vital element in defense - men - and be squeamish about drafting the other vital elements in defense - factories, mines, wealth?

We have been informed on authority that we consider reliable that the great industrialists are "holding up" the government in prices for equipment; that they not only make an unholy profit on production but arrange terms so that the cost of their new factories and equipment will be paid for by the government over a period of five years.

We have seen no figures published which will disclose exactly what the cost of ANY tank, ANY gun, or ANY other piece of equipment is costing the government; and we have been informed that, should these figures be disclosed to the public, a howl of righteous indignation would arise from those who are furnishing potential cannon fodder.

The great industrialists, in our opinion, foster the fight between the low-paid soldiers and the workers in the factories, in short, egg on a fight between the poor people, while they - the great industrialists - get by with murder. By diverting attention from themselves, they precipitate and encourage the antagonism between soldiers and workmen - both of whom may be in process of being gyped.

It would be highly illuminating for some government agency to have published the costs of equipment being produced for use of the armed forces.

The strike of the coal miners in this so-called "captive mines" is imperiling production of steel, and, in turn, imperiling the whole defense effort. Other strikes in other places are imperiling other essential war efforts. The obvious thing to do, it seems, is for the government to "draft," or take over, these mines and take over all other plants where strikes are in progress, and, in the future, take over each and every vital plant where a strike develops. Workers will work for the government, even if they think they are not getting a square deal from the private owners of factories.

Using the army to take over these mines and these factories will not, in our opinion, be at all necessary. Just "draft" the plants, like our boys are drafted, and the workers will go ahead with their work.

During the first World War, the entire railroad system, about to be broken down and about to become ineffective, was taken over by the government, and this vital element in our national defense operated regularly. If expensively; but, "damn the expense" seems to be the watchword anyway.

Dear Henry Orman: Your former teacher, "Miss" Fannie Morrison, will be at the Biltmore Hotel in Los Angeles from the 10th to the 15th of November, and I'll bet she would be mighty glad to see her old pupil whom she used to work on with a peach tree switch.

DRAFT TOOLS, AS WELL AS MEN, would be a good slogan to din into the ears of our senators and representatives in Washington.

Our editorial about the State saving its surplus, and appearing in this week's issue, was written last week and held over. We note a splendid editorial developing the same idea in PAGES, Lawrence Printing Company's house organ, and written by our friend Ellett Lawrence, which we received Wednesday. Great minds evidently run in the same channels, eh, Ellett?

Mr. and Mrs. W. F. Martin Entertain S. S. Class

It required two nights, last Thursday night and last Friday night, for Mr. and Mrs. Will Martin to entertain the regular members of the Presbyterian Men's Bible Class, of which Mr. Martin is one of the oldest members, if not the oldest member. About twenty-five members were privileged to accept the hospitality of this home, and of this estimable couple, each of the two evenings.

A fine dinner was served. A salad, a plate containing chicken spaghetti, beets and other good things, then bountiful servings of roasted kid and topped off with individual cherry pie, tempted the appetites and taxed the capacities of the guests.

Following the conclusion of the delightful dinner, the guests returned to the spacious porch where questions and answers, particularly those relating to the Holy Bible, were given.

A convivial spirit pervaded the groups for not only did the Martins delight to honor the guests, but the guests delighted to honor their classmate of such long standing.

The home and the yard were decorated with lighted paper pumpkins, while the table decorations carried out the same scheme.

MacDowell Music Club To Meet Next Thursday

We have been requested to announce that the MacDowell Music Club will meet at the Community House next Thursday, November 6 at 3:30 o'clock.

The topic will be "Contemporaneous American Composers" and the commentator will be Mrs. B. C. Adams.

The president requests a business session at 3:15, after which practice for the Christmas Cantata will be held.

WHAT WE NEED

This Community Needs . . .

State Highway No. 8 graded and paved from Grenada to Minter City, and needs the cooperation of every citizen in boosting the completion of this highway when the legislature assembles next January; it needs the fine trade that would come from the fertile section along Tallahatchie River; it needs its last frontier—the western part of Beat Five—opened up and put into cultivation.

The Food Stamp Plan in operation in this county where all the steps that CAN be taken by local authorities have been taken; it needs the cooperation of every citizen in working to get this plan established.

The Vocational Training Center, for which the necessary money required from the local authorities has been provided, so that the people of this immediate section may learn skilled trades and eventually be able to help in the defense industries and, later, be skilled mechanics.

Seriously to discuss the Commission form of government for the City of Grenada, there being no better time than the present to discuss and act upon the question—when the present city administration is in the middle of its term, and when nobody can say that the efforts to change our form of government are directed AT, FOR or TO any individual, and when calm reasoning instead of political pressure will prevail in the determination of the issue.

More dairying and more beef cattle, for, with the cotton economy being maintained only by artificial respiration and frequent injections of AAA dope, our community MUST—whether it desires to or not—find other means of utilizing our land and our farm labor; and for the further reason that no phase of agriculture has more rosy prospects for a longer time than has the dairy and cattle industry; remembering always that America must not only supply dairy products to the men in its own army, but to men in the armies of the other democracies, and remembering also that America must feed the exhausted peoples of Europe, friends and enemies alike, at the conclusion of the war, and must surely breeding stock to repopulate the war-ravaged pastures of the devastated countries abroad.

A better understanding between the city officials and the county officials, for their aims should be identical: A better understanding between the people of the City of Grenada and the rural people of Grenada County, for these two groups are interdependent, and must rise or fall together.

Its merchants and their clerks to leave their cars at home especially on Saturdays and other busy days, instead of preempting the choice parking spaces to the detriment of the people who come to Grenada to trade.

Some kind of properly supervised and properly protected parking lot where our "guests" may park their cars while they are engaged in "trading"; and this guest must feel that his car and the packages that he sends to the lot will not be molested.

A more helpful and charitable (in its real sense) spirit toward the Negroes and toward the underprivileged white people, and sincere efforts by the so-called Christian people of the community to uplift, instead of further to debase this majority element in our population.

and several more newspapers.

This State Needs . . .

The abolition of the farcical prohibition laws which stink with rottenness to high heaven, which are tragic evidences of the shortsightedness of our narrow-minded people who drink liker and howl for "prohibition" even when under the influence of liker; the laws which, being broken with impunity, breed disrespect for ALL law.

The "For Rent" signs (which, we recall, were first promised by our friend, Mike Conner) to be placed on the quarters now occupied by the useless appendages of state government.

A law which will exempt men now in the armed forces from the payment of poll taxes while they are in the service.

A revision of our tax laws so that NO property is exempt from taxation for this exemption theory, if carried much further into our laws, will absolutely ruin the men who have unexempt property.

a thicker skull for Fred Sullen.

and a heavier walking stick for Governor Johnson.

This Nation Needs . . .

To enact legislation that will permit the government to draft capital (money, factories, aircraft production plants, railroads, steamships, and every other agency or instrumentality needed in furthering national defense), as well as young men, and to do this upon the theory that HUMAN rights are, at least equal to PROPERTY rights.

To quit concentrating so much energy, time, material and money upon tanks, for whose transportation abroad we have inadequate facilities, and for whose unloading in Europe we have NO facilities AT ALL, and concentrate our energy, our time, our vital materials and our money upon the construction of bombers and fighter planes and upon the manufacture and transportation of powerful bombs, and upon the speedy launching of more and more fighting ships; for, in the last analysis, this war will be won or lost on the sea and in the air, and not on the ground.

and to get rid of Ma Perkins.

Rev. Bannie Lee Hamby Died Wednesday Morning

Rev. Bannie Lee Hamby died in his home on Elm Street in Grenada Wednesday morning, October 29, 1941.

He was born in Calhoun County, November 7, 1901, and was the son of Walter and Cora Hamby. His parents moved to Grenada when the deceased was a small boy. He has lived in Grenada since that time.

In spite of a terrible physical handicap which prevented him from walking at all, he obtained an education in ministerial work and was often called to preach the gospel of the lowly Nazarene. Wheeling about his small store in a rolling chair, he made the living for his family. He kept abreast of current events and was often known to seek to help those of his choice who sought office. As stated he was an ordained minister of the gospel.

Thursday morning at ten o'clock his body was buried in Odd Fellows cemetery with Rev. E. R. Henderson in charge of the services.

Surviving him are his mother Mrs. Cora Hamby and four brothers, Chilton, John, Granville and Arthur Hamby, to whom we extend our sympathy.

D. J. Hall Nets Nearly $700 With Milk

The following story, written by Mr. D. J. Hall, about his experience with milk production for the first ten months of 1941 is most illuminating, and it is reproduced as written:

	Milk Ck.	Feed	Gas
Jan. 1941	$81.00	$10.40	$18.00
Feb. 1941	$1.50	10.40	18.00
March 1941	$8.00	10.40	18.00
April, 1941	$8.00	10.40	18.50
May, 1941	$8.00	10.40	18.00
June, 1941	$0.66	12.00	17.50
July, 1941	$4.84	12.00	18.00
Aug. 1941	$0.00	15.50	14.00
Sept. 1941	$16.00	16.00	12.00
Oct. 1941	$2.06	17.73	12.50

$801.46 $91.50 -138.00

This a statement of milk that we have sold this year up to present time, also, expenses, feed bill has been subtracted from this. We have sold $801.46 milk, meal bought $91.50 and expenses $138.00. So you see what you can do with cows tended to right, with a good market for your milk. We have cleared $671.90 up to present. My daughter and I get up at 3:30 o'clock go to the barn and milk 13 cows while my wife gets breakfast. Then we eat breakfast. My daughter or I go to market with milk. So we have a good market for our milk, so farmers why not get busy and hold this market while we have it. We took our profit from milk and financed our place, planted 20 acres of cotton and made three bales. So you see cows beat a cotton crop. We raise all our feed except cotton seed meal.

Hurrah for Grenada Farms.
D. J. Hall.

City Wide Election On Hosiery Mill Extension

Citizens of Grenada will vote on Friday, November 7, on the question, "Shall the City of Grenada issue bonds, not to exceed $50,000 to enlarge the present building owned by the City and used by the Grenada Industries, Inc.?"

According to a public statement printed and distributed by the Grenada County Chamber of Commerce, the industry proposes to buy the lot on the corner just north of the present building. The City will build a building having 20,000 to 25,000 square feet of floor space, if the election carries, and will be reimbursed by the Grenada Industries on a monthly basis to the extent of the amount necessary to retire the bonds, as they mature, and to pay the interest on the bonds.

According to this same authority, The Grenada Industries, Inc., presented Messrs. J. R. Perry, Sr., L. J. Donk, J. T. Keeton, and J. H. Oliver (who have been requested by the City Council to act with the Board) a financial statement which, in the opinion of those gentlemen, "is a good and sufficient financial statement to justify the issuing of said bonds, and taking the promise of the Grenada Industries to liquidate same as they fall due."

To carry this election, a majority of THOSE QUALIFIED TO VOTE, and not a majority of THOSE VOTING, must vote in the affirmative.

United Daughters Of The Confederacy

On Thursday, October 23rd, the Grenada U. D. C. Chapter met with Mrs. Georgia Staten at her country home north of town with eight members and five visitors present. Mrs. Staten is a member of the Water Valley Chapter and had invited some of her members to meet with us. They did not come. We were sorry. Our meeting opened with usual ceremonies, followed by a business session. As the national convention meets in Los Angeles November 10th, we elected Mrs. W. S. Willis as our delegate and Mrs. Dawson Winter, of Jackson, Miss. The alternate. At this time our President introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Hon. Aylmer Winter, our able Senator, and he spoke to us on the relation of the 13th, 14th and 15th Amendments had on the reconstruction days which was full of information. This was followed by a social hour at which time our hostess assisted by her daughter, Mrs. Ernest Staten, and Mrs. Boteler, served a palatable plate containing of ice cream, sandwiches, cookies, olives and pickle. We adjourned to meet with Mrs. Nannie Alexander first Wednesday in December.

New Band Uniforms To Be Worn November 7th

The handsome new uniforms of the Grenada Band will be worn publicly for the first time next Friday, November 7th, when the band members will put on their new bibs and tuckers and parade about the streets of Grenada.

The money necessary for the purchase of these new uniforms was obtained by painstaking work of the Band mothers in various ways known only to the ladies when they are bent upon the accomplishment of some worthy end, and from a contribution from the City Treasury.

"The History of Grenada's Band" will be depicted, and this subject will be the theme of the occasion.

And, by the way, while you are up town that day, you should go to the polls and vote on the hosiery mill bond question.

Relieve Soldiers Of Poll Tax

So far as the State Constitution will permit, we believe the next legislature should relieve the young men on active duty with the military service, and those who are otherwise qualified to vote, of the necessity of paying poll taxes during their terms of service.

Few of the men in the service will think of paying poll taxes, hence there will be little financial loss; few of them can come home to vote if the emergency continues, and, therefore, their combined votes will amount to little; but, when demobilization comes, these men will still have to "catch up" that is wait two years more before they can vote.

We throw out this thought for whatever it is worth. If found worthy, we hope our Grenada county members will initiate the legislation in Jackson.

Save The Surplus In The Treasury

The current surplus in the State Treasury is inviting a lot of hungry schemers for this and that extra appropriation. A surplus in ANY public treasury always does that.

All of us who think know that hard times are going to follow the cessation of hostilities because of the demobilization of the army and the shutting down of the war industries.

Wise men are putting up some money to soften their personal falls when the inevitable and inescapable depression comes. We venture the assertion that, in his personal affairs, Governor Johnson, sensing what is coming further up the road, is trimming his personal sails, and is putting up something to ease his fall. We venture to say that every legislator who has sense enough to be a legislator is trying to arrange his own personal financial affairs so that, when the ax drops, he will have something to fall back upon. We venture to say that Mr. Vandiver, the State Superintendent of Education, whose organization leads the pack of surplus raiders, is laying away something so that, come the depression, he can live through it.

Then we ask, should not the State (which, after all, is ALL of us) save, instead of dissipate its surplus so that it can more easily weather the terrible storm which which is somewhere ahead?

The Community Newspaper

It is quite possible that the average citizen does not stop to realize how fortunate he is to have newspapers who print the truth. In foreign countries, newspapers, as such, do not longer exist. Bound and shackled by the tyranny of dictatorship, newspapers in the greater part of Europe serve only as the mouthpieces of a few cruel, ambitious men, and Europeans pay the penalty. In the United States, we purchase the truth for only a few cents per week, and we live in liberty as a result.

Make no mistake about it, a free press is the bulwark of democracy, for it is the expression of free men, printing the truth and thinking aloud as they like. For so many generations we have had a free press in America, that we are prone to take it as a matter of fact. If it ever should be threatened, then we will realize how much it really meant to us.

Ours is a creative job. We create a new newspaper every Thursday. It lives and breathes and has meaning and importance. Next week it is dead and thrown away. There is nothing older than last week's newspaper.

It is impossible to see eye to eye with all of our readers, at the same time. If we see eye to eye with sixty percent of them each issue, we have done a good job.

The most valuable asset in a newspaper is not the men and women who make it, no matter how fair and honest they may be. It is not the building and equipment, no matter how fine they may be. No, the most valuable asset of any newspaper is the good will and respect of the people of the community it seeks to serve, and it is for this good will and respect that this newspaper constantly strives.

Negro Appreciates People Of Grenada

The following letter from John E. Hall, Principal of the Hungerford (Fla.) School—"A Vocational Institution for Leadership Training of Colored Youth"—is self explanatory.

As a Negro who grew up in Grenada, whose parents still live there and who is still very much interested in Grenada and Mississippi, I want to thank you for what you say in your editorial of October 16, entitled "Plenty of Work at Home."

Today I am heading an institution which draws students from six states in the Union, and I am what I am because there were people in Grenada who practice the kind of missionary work you advocate. May I name a few who inspired and helped me to realize my dreams? Superintendent John Rundle, Miss Lizzie Horn, the Rev. Holder who once pastored the M. E. Church, South, the Rev. Farr who pastored the First Baptist Church, the Rev. McLeod who pastored the Presbyterian Church, President Newman of the Grenada College, and many others.

These persons believed in me and because of their advice, I had the courage to go on when the going was tough. Only a Negro knows what it means to have persons like them express their faith in him. I have often told them that I would to God there were more persons like them.

See where Fred Sullens has decided to quit pulling other folks' chestnuts from the fire; that all he gets is cussing from the loser and indifference from the winner. It took him forty years to find that out. We found it out in seven years.

Cheer Up

Cheer up. In 1916, Grenada County, with almost twice the present acreage, made only 2,800 bales of cotton, and lived to tell the tale.

Grenada County can live on in spite of a 3,000-bale crop this year.

"Pieces Of Eight"

He blew and blew
About the sad disgrace,
Of how "the old tail wagged the dog".
And now good citizens admit
He helped out quite a bit,
To put Wall Dooxy on the throne.

He will not squelch that fiery pen.
He'll ride his Pegasus
Again, and then again,
Just now his steed would lead
You citizens to pave,
That intersection
Out on Highway Eight.

With Poll the Parrot
It's "Pieces of Eight."
With Editor Whitaker,
It's "PAVE THAT PIECE OF EIGHT!"

More About Roll-Em From Sen. Bilbo

In fairness to Senator Bilbo, we give his answer to our recent editorial about "Roll-Em Rolled" as prominent a place as we gave our own editorial. Senator Bilbo's letter, dated October 20, 1941, and addressed to "Friend Whitaker," follows:

I know you are trying to give the people the truth through the columns of your valuable paper, "The Grenada County Weekly," but you are making the mistake that some other folks make by getting your slant of things by reading Fred Sullens and some other unreliable sheets. I notice in your paper of October 16th, an editorial headed "Roll-Em Rolled" in which you say that Roland Wall has been promoted and that he will have direct charge not only of the WPA activities in this State but also in five other Southern States.

Of course, you thought you were publishing the truth to your readers when you wrote this or you would not have written it, but, my dear friend, there is not a word of truth in your statement. Roland Wall has only been placed temporarily on the staff at New Orleans waiting the finding of a job for him elsewhere in the United States, and with positive and direct instructions that he would not and must not have a damn thing to do with the Mississippi WPA. Mr. Hunter stated on the occasion of his dismissal from Mississippi that it would be a foolish thing to remove him for political reasons from Mississippi and then let him have anything to do with the State through the New Orleans office.

If you will just wait a few days longer you will also find that when the Federal Courts get through with Roland Wall in collecting $2,800 and some dollars in money that he obtained as Mayor of the City of Brookhaven and District Director of the WPA through misrepresentations and fraud, instead of going up he is going down in the WPA set-up. And this is not all. I am not permitted to tell you everything that is in store for this gentleman. There is an old saying that a wise general never reveals his plans.

This is just a friendly tip to you so you will not be caught in an embarrassing position with your readers because you have been mighty nice to me on many occasions.

This Could Have Happened In Grenada

The following "Tale of the Night," as told in the editorial columns of the Jackson Daily News might easily be told with the scene changed to Grenada:

It happened the other night at one of the night spots on a highway leading out of Jackson.

A long, sleek, swanky open roadster rolled up to the rear of the shabby structure. A sharp blast of the horn brought a furtive-eyed darkey to the driver's side of the car. A few words were exchanged and the darkey departed.

The man behind the wheel was the embodiment of flaming youth, nonchalant, self-assured, a bit too gaudily dressed with the aura of a youngster who knows his way about in the world.

The girl was a knock-out, a dazzling vision of amazing beauty. Her facial lines might have been copied from a Grecian statue of feminine perfection. She had luxurious reddish-gold hair billowing beneath a jaunty hat. Her velvet brown eyes were soft and dreamy, yet as bright as any star twinkling in the skies above. Her carmine lips were delightfully curved and full enough to be called voluptuous. Her teeth were of snowy whiteness and dazzling in their perfection. She wore a black frock that could have only been designed by a clever modiste and sold in a shop where prices are mentioned in polite whispers. Even when slumped down lazily on the luxurious cushion it was evident that she was tall, trim, slender, lithe-limbed with unexpected curves and contours at quite the proper places on a feminine form divine.

A silence of several minutes ensued, broken only by the chirping of crickets out in the grass and the hum of swift-moving automobiles on the nearby highway. Suddenly the girl jerked herself upright and exclaimed:

"Gawddamn it, why in the hell don't that nigger come on with the liquor? I'm slowly dying for need of a drink!"

The furtive-eyed negro crept stealthily out of the bushes, slipped a package into the car window, the accelerator hummed, the roadster rolled back to the highway and—

Thus ended the story.

There is no use in throwing away the surplus in the State Treasury. This money will "keep". It will be needed ere long for urgent purposes. We are in a fool's paradise now.

This Interesting World

(By HERBERT B. ALLEN)

There has been a great change in opinion regarding the war in the north central states during the past month. In Chicago and Detroit the war is the principal topic of conversation, and it is taken a great deal more seriously now than was the case last summer.

Many friends have asked me the question, "Why does England not invade the continent?" Cabled reports of pressure on the British government, and in and out of parliament, to send a British Expeditionary Force across the Channel naturally stimulate interest in this country as to why such action is not taken.

There are several reasons why a British army has not been sent across the Channel, and why one will not be sent at this time. The principal reason is that Britain at present cannot support a sufficiently large army in the field to do any effective work, and a small army would invite a great disaster.

Few Americans realize what a small country England really is. There are only forty millions in England, and the country is only the size of the State of Mississippi. There is nothing like the natural resources, wealth of industrial plants, abundance of raw materials, and skilled workmen in Britain that America has.

At the commencement of the war the British Army was sent across to France, and with collapse of the French and Belgians, it was with the greatest difficulty that the major portion of the army was rescued—but the equipment of the army was almost completely lost. Therefore the country had to commence manufacturing equipment for the army, and vastly expand production in order to arm millions of recruits.

The recent army maneuvers revealed the miserable results which have been accomplished in this country in an armament effort of our own. But in Britain, with vastly smaller resources, there has been a terrible aerial warfare going on with the object of destroying England's manufacturing facilities. She has had to make frantic efforts to create a great air force, and to maintain, and to expand, the world's largest navy, while the navy has been fighting all over the world, incurring grave losses and damages.

The necessity of desperation required that all possible effort be made to expand the aerial and naval defenses first and to do all possible to repair the losses of the merchant marine in order that England might survive. Therefore it is not to be supposed that England has a large army sufficiently well equipped to attack the great mechanized units against which it would have to advance.

That is one side of the matter—and a very important one. But there is another consideration which I consider more vital. In my judgment, if there were a large British army, well armed and supported by sufficient tanks and artillery, it would still not be possible for that army to fight on the continent.

The Germans can tell you why it cannot be done, and it is because of this fact that they have been able to remove most of their divisions from France and Belgium to Russia.

You will recall that two years ago Hitler was proclaiming to Germany and to the world that he was about to invade Britain and that it was a two or three week job for the Nazis. Perhaps he believed it—but I told Whyte Whitaker, in a Memphis hospital more than a year ago, why it could not be done by the Germans or by anyone else. The reasons are as sound today as they were last year.

The English Channel is notoriously one of the roughest waterways on the globe. Shipping along the channel must have the protection of either harbors or breakwaters in stormy weather.

In order to transport an army, the heavy equipment of an army, and the enormous supply of food, fuel, munitions and replacements to maintain it in the field, can you imagine the vast concentration of shipping that would necessarily be gathered in order to move this vast aggregation? If the army were of only 100,000, that would be equal to the entire population of Memphis and Birmingham.

This shipping, consisting of troop transports, freighters, passenger vessels, barges, tugs, and in fact every type of boat imaginable, would have to be collected in a very few ports where piers and loading facilities would be available. It would have to land where unloading facilities would be available.

The Germans collected all of the barges and vessels along the shores of the Baltic and North Seas, from Germany, Denmark, Norway, Holland, Belgium and France, for an invasion of Britain. They had to do just as the British would have to do—collect them in vast groups in a few harbors and behind a few breakwaters. There they were loaded and were evidently prepared to go across the Channel, and that was to be the invasion of Britain.

Can you imagine what a target this vast aggregation of shipping was for the Royal Air Force? Could there be a greater target than miles of shipping tied up side by side? And the natural result was that there was no invasion of England!

And the very conditions which prevented Germany from launching an invasion of England at a time when the British army had lost all of its heavy equipment, tanks and artillery in France and Belgium, now prevent the British from launching an attack on the German rear during the heavy fighting in Russia.

Between the operation of the new speedy torpedo boats, fast destroyers, submarines, heavy bombers and dive bombers, just how could a large army be transported across water, and maintained there?

Not only is this the reason why Britain cannot come to the aid of Russia when that aid is sorely needed. It is also the real reason why there will be no large A. E. F. sent overseas in this war. England carried most of the American troops in the last war. But in this war England has her hands more than full with her own requirements—and we do not have either the passenger vessels, or the cargo shipping, to transport a large army overseas.

This war will not be decided on land, either in Russia or anywhere else. It will be decided on the sea, and in the air. When the United States enters the war actively, which will not be for some months, we will use our navy most effectively.

We do not have a fighting air force, and will not have one for more than a year. But it is very possible that the aid of the United States Navy in keeping the Nazis bottled up until aircraft production creates the required planes, and the eventual power of the new American Air Corps, will be the last stroke that will buckle Hitler in late 1942.

REPAIRS AND REMODELING ARE EASY AND INEXPENSIVE

HOUSES, LIKE PEOPLE, are as old as they look.

There is no reason why an 1898 house should still look like the "Bustle" period.

Architectural styles change frequently, conveniences are improved constantly, but the well-built old house need not bear the stamp of age.

Modernization, as we conceive this important activity, can make your house look like a 1940 home, no matter when it was built.

Costs are low too... and terms easy. Monthly payments you'll never miss can make your house look like a brand new home with all new-home conveniences.

Legislative Committee Of N. E. Miss. Council Named

Members of the Legislative Committee of the Northeast Mississippi Council, officially named by President Geo. McLean, are planning an aggressive campaign this fall for legislation, during the coming session of the Mississippi legislature, beneficial to the agricultural, highway and business interests of the 25 counties composing the council.

The committee, headed by Dr. J. E. Rayburn, of Pontotoc, has for its other members Will E. Ward, of Starkville, Hindeman Doxey, of Holly Springs, Charles D. Fair, of Louisville, Samuel E. Lumpkin, of Tupelo, speaker of the house; David E. Crawley, of Kosciusko, and John H. Holton, Jr., of Columbus.

Aiding the committee in farming needed legislation will be W. D. Houston, of Aberdeen, a member of the Council's Executive Committee. The full personnel of the Executive Committee, which, with the Legislative Committee, will frame the policies of the Council, will be announced by President McLean early next week.

A brochure, detailing the twelve points for which the Council will conduct its campaigns in behalf of Northeast Mississippi, has been prepared by Secretary-Manager John R. Robinson, and approved by the officers of the Council. This booklet now is on the press, and will be distributed in quantity to executive chairmen of the Council in the twenty-five counties next week. It summarizes the full aims of the council, and explains the benefits which all classes of residents of Northeast Mississippi may expect from the council in return for their support.

A charter has been issued the council by Secretary of State Wood, and an organization meeting held at which the officers election in preliminary meetings confirmed. These officers are: George McLean, Tupelo, President; Harvey Lee Morrison, Okolona, and W. O. Lawrence, Bruce, Vice-Presidents; W. N. Ethridge, Oxford, Treasurer; John R. Robinson, University, Secretary-Manager.

Offices have been furnished and opened in the Y. M. C. A. building, on the University of Mississippi campus, at University. The charter provides for a non-profit, non-political organization, with the individual members freed from responsibility for any of the council's liabilities.

Negroes Are Only Happy Children

A negro man, with a small saw stuck under his arm, standing on the "bank corner," was asked by Mr. Thomas, "Are you a carpenter, old man?" The negro replied "Naw'er—I'll do tho, till a carpented can get there."

My cook, Carrie, after awaiting my arrival for supper (only to find out I was omitting supper to reduce a few pounds, said in a most pleasant manner, "Dats right, Miss Mabel, I just disremembered that you be de-creasing."

Aunt Adeline Jackson, who lived on the Dr. Whitaker place for many years, asked the whereabouts of a young colored friend, Longino Davis, who had lived on our farm all of his life until recently. I told her that Longino had gone to Arkansas to live with his wife's people because he was always seeing his papa's ghost around the old cabin home. Adeline said, "he oughtn't let that bother him, as very likely the noise he heard was either a bat or rat; because when folks died, they either went on to Heaven where they are too happy or to the other place where they are too busy to come back here."

Mr. Frank Gerard's favorite story about negroes is concerning two negro women who met on the square one day and after all kinds of greetings, including hugs and kisses, one of the women, holding her dear friend off at arms length said, "who is you, anyway?"

Five G. H. S. Graduates Attend Friday's Game

Among the visitors to the football game last Friday night were five boys who graduated from Grenada High last Spring. This group consists of Charles Kenwright, Bobby Weir, T. W. Goodwin, E. R. (Epp) Smith, and Frank Marascallo. Three of these boys, Bobby Weir, Charles Kenwright and T. W. Goodwin won distinction at Sunflower Junior College by being placed on the Honor Roll. Epp Smith made the highest grade over there in the commercial department—a grade of A minus. All the Grenada High pupils, boys and girls, are in excellent standing in Sunflower Junior College.

The voters of Grenada are urged to remember that, on next Friday, November 7, they will be called upon to vote on the issuance of $50,000 in bonds to finance the expansion at the hosiery mill.

In order that this bond issue will "carry," a clear majority of THOSE QUALIFIED TO VOTE must vote for the bond issue. As we recall, there are 1015 qualified voters in Grenada. If this figure is correct, at least 508 voters MUST vote. "For." Those staying at home, or going fishing, or off on a visit, or in jail or in the asylum, will automatically vote "against."

Alonso Billups certainly has received a lot of publicity in the highway magazine and in various trade journals for his crossing signal device, now in operation at Bursi's crossing. The is an unique and successful device and, it seems to us, should be more widely used for the protection of people crossing railroads at grade.

Our alert, handsome and intelligent District Attorney, Hon. J. P. Coleman, of Ackerman, must have been paid off, for he sent in his renewal.

If the United States Government can draft your boy and my boy and send them possibly to death in the defense of America, can anyone arise and tell me why that same government cannot draft capital, machine shops, steel mills and other property. Sit down and think this out: are PROPERTY rights superior to HUMAN rights in America. It looks so.

Muse over the above thought a while: are PROPERTY RIGHTS more inviolable than HUMAN rights?

Hon Cowles Horton, than whom there no more astute and painstaking lawyer in the State, not only paid his modest dues, but had some very nice things to say of the GCW which, of course, were appreciated more than the money.

Aint they sweet.

Mr. Herbert B. Allen and wife passed through Grenada early this week, spending the night with us. Mr. Allen is on his way to the Pacific Coast, where he will be the editor for that area of the revised Encyclopedia Britannica. He had his choice of such a post in New York, Detroit, Chicago and the Pacific Coast, and chose the latter area.

Mr. Allen is the clearest thinker I ever knew. He possesses the ability to present his message in a most logical manner. While, like all soldiers, he will cuss occasionally, he is the most practical Christian I ever knew.

It has been a great privilege for me and my family to know him and to associate with him. I learned more from his casual conversations, which began over a year ago in the Memphis Veterans Hospital, than I have learned in all the books I ever read.

He stated that he expected to continue to contribute articles to the Grenada County Weekly, if not with the regularity that has characterized his other contributions. We and our readers will welcome them.

Chester Brown, Ne-High king of Asheville, North Carolina, and one of our treasured charter members, promptly remitted when he received his notice.

Consistent advertising is the type of advertising that pays. Hit or miss advertising, unless some timely bargains are offered, is largely wasted.

Wonder if the City of Grenada ever has to have any printing done, as Grenada county does, and, if so, does the City of Grenada send its printing orders out of the town that has three printing establishments? We wonder.

Charity Begins At Old Ladies Home

Miss Maud L. Walthall, of Jackson, who is publicity secretary, also field secretary for the Old Ladies Home Association at Jackson, was in Grenada Saturday afternoon. She was a caller at the Grenada County Weekly office and discussed at length the needs of the association.

The urgent need for gifts to this cause is one which surely must tug at our heart strings.

Miss Walthall stated that there are three Grenadians who donate regularly each year, and she feels assured that if others realized the dire need for gifts to these dear old ladies, more Grenadians would contribute. The three Miss Walthall mention with deep appreciation were Mrs. Gertrude Turner, Mr. J. H. Oliver and Mr. L. J. Doak.

Miss Walthall named your society editor, Mrs. W. W. Whitaker, as Grenada county chairman, and we will present this cause through the columns of the Grenada County Weekly.

The question has been asked: Why should the people of Mississippi be asked to support the Old Ladies Home?

The answer: Because we can never be indifferent to the appeal of helpless old age, especially when we realize that these aged women struggled through the sorrows and hardships of Reconstruction days, bravely blazing the trail for those of us who now enjoy the comfort and freedom of our beloved state, while in the evening of their lives, with naught but the memory of past sorrows and vanished joys, they look to us for food and shelter as the shadows of old age lengthen and the end of their day draws near.

There are 85 inmates living in the home, selected from a long waiting list. Only those of good character and free from contagious disease and being 65 years of age and over, and without relatives able to care for them, are admitted. Many are over eighty years and several are over 90.

AMERICAN WOMEN

Recently we received a pamphlet on "The American Woman and Her Responsibilities" from Stephens College, Columbia, Mo., and as many women are vitally interested in this subject, we have decided to write an editorial based on the advice gleaned from this pamphlet.

(Editorial By Mrs. W. W. W.)

A clarification of the responsibilities of women in a democracy who are seeking a program for giving effective direction to their role as the primary force in shaping the ideals, strength and moral fiber of a nation is being sought for most earnestly by men and women who are gravely concerned about conditions in America.

To say that Americans have awakened to the shocking fact that democracy can fail through the weakened morale of its people, and that they intend to do something about it, is indeed a most healthy sign. We feel that now is the time to begin to mend our ways, encourage our neighbors and guide those of weaker morals, and so we turn naturally to the consideration of what produces moral fiber, without which democracy must face defeat and doom. Is moral fiber nurtured in a background of culture? Then think of the rich heritage of France. Is it produced by the vast organism of public education? Germany had developed that to a high point. Remember that these two factors education and culture are important, if properly administered for WORTHY PURPOSES, yet it is unquestioned that true moral fiber, what ever the influence of outside agencies, is shaped and nurtured during the FORMATIVE YEARS IN THE HOME itself. Thus, the MOTHER, more than any other agency or individual, becomes far more than the mother of her children—she becomes the mother of the ideals and strength and aspirations of a nation. Mindful of the significant power which rests in the hands of the American women, it is obvious that we must broaden our view of woman's role and arrive at an intelligent and scientific understanding of how she may best be aided in her preparation for this great duty. The programs outlined for women in the past, have stressed the great OPPORTUNITY of women in a democracy, rather than on the responsibility of women. Too more the opportunity for women was stressed and their successes lauded, the more tendency to relegate to the background woman's one time primary concern with the home and children. Remember these two apparently divergent interest are not incompatible; what we must do is to harmonize the two so that the more vital force for the preservation of democracy—children and the home—will not be lost in gaining the immediate wider field for action for the individual women. In short, it is important that women not only make success of their own lives, but that they guide successfully the lives that are entrusted to them.

Women, far more than the men, will determine the world of the future, and American women, forty million strong, should unite in a great army on what that world should be, and accomplish it through the high moral training of their children. The full meaning of this discussion on the effect of morals on a nation is but an appeal to the women of America to so live and work, that not only a better world in which to live will be the result, but that their lives and behavior will be an inspiration to posterity.

As an afterthought, let us add that the women of the South have a most grave and significant role in the affairs of its section of the Nation. We have the responsibility of a great negro population, the responsibility of a great and neglected rural white population and the responsibility of many peoples scattered throughout our towns, villages and cities, who lead an aimless life and are therefore undesirable citizens because of lack of work and lack of the desire to live as true Christian people should live. Young parents responsibilities can not be assumed by a negro servant, no matter how good the servant is, in the rearing of children of the American home. Parents cannot drink intoxicating liquor, gamble, step out with other men or women, and still be fit companions for innocent children, and sad as it may be, in many cases this very condition exists. Business men, leaders of our democratic world, cannot discharge their obligations to their family and country by providing a roof for the family and paying taxes. They must so live that their morals are not questioned, for it is they who set the example for younger men and women. Mighty Germany of today, with conquered Europe at her feet, are fearful monuments to weak sociological morals of this era.

Let America beware!!

Do you ever feel that something you are doing at school will never have a meaning to you after you are graduated? Everything you do at school should be meaningful to us and our associates. Some will scoff at certain subjects they are taking, saying, "This subject has no practical uses and is merely a waste of my time." In the first place, you shouldn't be taking that subject unless you plan to use it. And, second, if this subject is required, you should try hard to find out what is in it that will benefit you. There is not a required subject in high school that can't be used to a great extent. These subjects put a final touch to your high school education, lending a tone of culture to your make-up. This extra touch places you above the average person in the world today.

Let us, therefore, learn to be thrifty with our school work, as well as with our time and money. We all have minds. Why not use them profitably in all that we do?

CAMPUS PERSONALITIES

Name: (You have to guess)

Rank: Sophomore

Description: He's the type you don't mind having to sit behind in the picture show. In plainer words, he's short and rather on the thin side, but to hear him talk, you'd think he was another "Samson." Since he is active in the Boy Scouts, he helps put up the flag in front of the school building. To the delight of his many friends, he invites them out to his country "shack" to various parties. In the last few years he has been seen quite frequently in the company of Laverne Wilson and Eleanor Green. Guess Who!

CITIZENSHIP STUDENTS CHOSEN

Each year one girl and one boy are chosen out of the Senior class to be good citizenship girl and boy. It is a custom for the senior class to select by ballot the three girls and three boys whom they deem most outstanding. The final selection is left to the faculty. This year the class selected Mary Lou Cullen, Dorothy Tallent, and Louise Avent as the three most outstanding girls. The selection of the boys was Benton Keeton, Leon Provine, and James Thomas.

At a faculty meeting a most unusual thing happened when they were deciding upon the boy. Two boys received the same votes.

Mary Lou Cullen, three years contestant in regional field meet, four years on the basketball squad, vice-president of her class during the Sophomore and Senior years, secretary during her Junior year, G. R. four years and president this year, and public speaking student, was selected by the faculty as G. H. S.'s most outstanding girl in the class of '42. The D. A. R. sponsored this contest in which Mary Lou will compete with other girls chosen as citizenship girls in other schools in the state. Congratulations, Mary Lou!

ATTENTION, PLEASE!

Are you the "life of the party" or are you just another "drip"? If you have a big enough ego to think that you are "the life of the party," don't read this article. To all of you who can't play the piano, sing, or think of clever jokes, take heed of the following rules that we are handing, free of charge.

1. Always, and we do mean always, try to upset your hostess' plans by doing one of these: (a) Tell her that you don't like to play that special game. (b) Don't participate in the game; just walk around and annoy everyone; (c)

Say with a bored air that if something doesn't happen, you're going home.

2. If the party spirit wanes, do some of the following: (a) Trip the first person that walks in front of you. To make this more interesting, trip him so that he will fall hard on the floor. (b) Talk about the Civil War or how your uncle had his tonsils taken out. (c) Discuss in detail the newest advances in war campaign. To add more to the "life of the party," don't accept anyone's opinion but your own. If someone tries to talk, drown him out or glare at him severely.

3. To prove that you are "the highlight" of the party, try: (a) When your hostess says that it is time for refreshment, say louder than usual, "Well, it's about time," or, better still, "I surely hope that we don't have that awful kind of sandwich that we had here last time." Be sure that she hears you, and if she doesn't, say it again, or if necessary, repeat it several times.

There are many more rules for being a non-drip, but I must limit this article somewhere. If you follow the simple rules, you won't have to worry about being a "drip," at the next party—you won't be invited!

SPECIAL PROGRAM

The first special assembly program was held Monday morning in the auditorium before a large crowd of Grammar and High School pupils. The program was an interesting talk by Delbert Harter, who has been in 50 countries in the world. During his tour, he traveled 2500 miles in Russia, visited war-torn Spain, and was in China during the actual conflicts between Japan and China. To the delight of all his audience, he dressed Larry Noble as an Arabian sheik. Mr. Harter brought with him many curios, among which was a sword used to behead people in China. This curio, as well as many other was "ohed" and "ahed" at by all the student body. At the close of the program, the Grammar school children were dismissed and the high school students were allowed to remain to ask questions of special interest. Most of the students agreed that Mr. Harter was the most interesting and entertaining speaker that we have had yet!

G. H. S. BAND ELECTS OFFICERS

At band practice on Tuesday, October 29, the G. H. S. Band elected its officers for the 1941-42 term. Benton Keeton, elected by a unanimous vote, succeeds his brother as president. S. B. Cowan was elected vice-president; and Rogers Pleasants, secretary and reporter. Roberta Allen received the honor of band sponsor.

CHAPEL

After several songs, Mr. Rundle gave a talk which was taken from Deuteronomy, the fifth chapter. He stated several laws which everyone should always obey, one of which is the laws of Health. He said that the ten commandments are the supreme laws, and he cautioned us to follow these laws. He gave examples of people who had and had not followed them, and the outcome of their discretion or indiscretion.

STYLE HIT PARADE

We are tired of talking about the new skirts and sweaters, new hair-do's and finger-nail polish, and so forth. This week we are going to deal only with the new jewelry that's hanging around mostly on girls' necks and arms.

If it would hurry up and get cold so leaves on the trees would turn brown, red, and yellow, Ann Odom's necklace would match the leaves. It goes well with her yellow sweater.

Bernice has a "bottle" bracelet. It consists solely of a series of gold (?) links with miniature bottles attached to them. Among them is the "little brown jug" that you've heard so much about.

Beebe Cullen's pink necklace makes us think of spring. It looks like real pink daisies.

Lon Avent has a gold bracelet and ear-bob set. It is made out of some synthetic material that you can see through.

Although we've put it in here before, we are still raving about Frances Her-ring's bracelet and necklace that has real chestnuts on them. Maybe the repetition comes because we wrote the "Bulldog" at a hungry moment, besides. The fact is that the set is really cute.

Lil's friend from out West gave her a silver bracelet that's quite the rage. What will they think of next?

DIRT

Louise had a gala time over the week-end with her Ole Miss friend.

"Tillie" Rose, Anne Odom's Winona friend, took Anne to the Winona-Kilmichael game Friday night. Though we don't believe her, she says she was scolding the game.

Question: Who were the "lucky dogs" who had two flat tires Sunday night?

Answer: James Hale, Lucy Moss, Mildred Moss and Wm. Gannon. Consolation: Jimmy missed the league meeting of which he had charge.

Every school morning and we mean every morning at exactly fourteen minutes and 23.4 seconds past eight o'clock, Jack Calk and Roberta stroll up the G. H. S. walk.

There were lots of folks at the show Monday night. The report cards must have been good.

Science Teacher: Mary Moore, what makes wood burn.

Mary Moore: Kerosene.

Jay was with "Maggie" Friday nite as per usual.

D. M. Taylor took the afternoon, off from Ole Miss to come home and date Roberta Thursday night. They aided several of the girls on the Y. W. A. scavenger hunt.

Our football boys should play good football against Water Valley. Did you notice the three touchdowns Bobby Townes made during the half?

Lynn Rose has a "sho" nuff pretty new car. He was giving all the crowd a thrill Sunday by letting them ride with him.

Bernice charmed John King into giving her a "charm" bracelet. P. S. She is already singing "Jingle Bells" to the man in Texas.

Lynn has a full "date" book for the week-end.

Friendship resumed: Catherine Jones and her army boy.

BOOK WEEK
NOVEMBER 2-8

OUR community will participate in the nation-wide observance of Book Week, November 2-8. This annual opportunity to arouse public interest in books and reading has long had the active support of our librarians, teachers, social agencies and civic groups. Although Book Week is dedicated primarily to boys and girls, parents and others interested in young people or books will enjoy the special exhibits on display in libraries, schools and bookstores.

The poster for Book Week shown above was designed by Helen Sewell, noted illustrator of children's books, for the twenty-third annual observance of Book Week.

The peanut business must be good in Grenada as Isaac, the colored peanut vender, has now procured a rubber-tired red painted cart for his wares. Thus Grenada Grows.

Rumor hath it that the War Department has requested local aid in obtaining lenses or deeds to land for the proposed army camp south of Grenada.

Aint they sweet.

Brother Burt brought in some mighty fine sweet potatoes to apply on his subscription.

It looks like Tommie Rose not only has a knitting department in connection with his cafe, but has also added a matrimonial bureau.

Hubert Clark, of Mr. Nebb, who takes a most active interest in the agricultural work of the county, was good enough to come in recently and add a year to his subscription. Thanks, Hubert.

The old lady has finally settled with her negro tenants. She has nearly as many papers as the Comptroller of the United States.

Those who had enough nerve and enough money to be on Ole Mess against Tutane are setting pretty this week. That was one of the week's biggest upsets.

The Groundhog Barber says he has quit politics, but you can never tell. It is hard to teach an old dog new tricks.

Our genial and lovable friend, Col. Henry Kahn, of Duck Hill, showed up Thursday and paid up for his folly of betting against Wall Doney.

It looks like Forget-Me-Not Day was a success Saturday. Certainly those girls would not let the general public forget them until a blue flower was pinned on.

Andrew Carothers got three free meals last week, two at Will Martin's and one at Ed Underwood's.

Sister H. B. Spain remembered the GCW with a perfectly good check.

We are highly glad to report that Gene Horton, in spite of his age, came through an appendix operation and a gall bladder operation in good shape.

Speaking of Hortons, the old lady is indebted to Warner Horton for some nice egg plants.

Our Arlington, Virginia subscriber, John Gresham, missed one copy of the GCW and sent an air mail letter for a duplicate. Needless to say, another copy was sent him pronto.

Who is the larger, John L. Lewis or Uncle Sam? Time alone will tell.

Mr. H. D. Hardy was hard enough to accumulate $1.50 which he used to pay his subscription.

Junius Townes, Sr., has been busy helping John George for several days.

They say that the saloonkeepers have opened up again. There are too many denizens, stewards and vestrymen who buy and drink liquor to stop the sale of it. The prohibition law is a farce, and should be repealed, and will be repealed if the legislators have any guts.

Our customers were good enough to keep Horn, Greenfield, and Andrew busy Friday and Saturday, but they are now facing a week end of idleness and devilment.

Do not forget to vote in the bond election next Friday, November 7th. If you are out of town, fishing or frolicking, you automatically vote against it.

Who is running the show, John L. Lewis or Franklin D. Roosevelt?

Ed Underwood does not look (and act) his age, whatever his age is.

We make a motion that the city council abolish all committees, as they seem to be useless appendages to the civic body politics.

The farmers out in the Providence neighborhood seem to have suffered less when he paid in $1.50 for he will more than farmers in any other section of the county. The boll weevil took a little ride out of their cotton.

We certainly had a fine response to our notices of subscription delinquencies, but a good many have yet failed to take heed, and are in danger of being thrust into the outer darkness of ignorance and sin.

Yes, Billie reads the GCW. So does Ford.

Every time you see that beautiful American flag waving in the breeze in the public square (or elsewhere), you should thank God that you live under that flag.

THIS INTERESTING WORLD

By HERBERT R. ALLEN

Near where I am writing, on the north side of Chicago, is a small park about twice the size of the square in Grenada. Facing the park is a fine old library. On the library is a bronze plate which states that the library was built on the site of the only residence in the path of the great fire of 1871 to escape the flames.

Inside of this library is the finest and most natural looking life size portrait in oils of President Lincoln that I have ever seen. But it is not the Lincoln painting that attracted my attention particularly.

In a small glass case there is displayed a piece of paper, two inches wide and twenty-two inches long. In the village of Nara, Japan, around the year 770, this piece of paper was printed in Chinese characters with a translation of some Sanskrit literature from India. The printing was from a wooden block—and it is the oldest piece of printed matter in existence.

For several years I made my home in the Bonington Hotel, on Southampton Row in London. Nearby was the British Museum with its innumerable priceless relics of the early days of our civilization. I wonder how many great works of art and literature have been destroyed by the indiscriminate bombing of the Nazi machine of destruction?

Beside this earliest example of the printing art there is exhibited a Chinese bank note of the Ming Dynasty. It is much older than England's famous Magna Charta. In our currency it would be valued at about thirty cents, but thirty cents in the China of those days represented considerable money. In size the bank note would be about half as large as a sheet of ordinary business letter paper.

When I left Grenada, Whyte Whitaker gave me an American silver dollar dated 1885, the year of my parents' marriage, and I carry it as a good luck token. On the reverse side of this dollar, surrounding the American eagle is this inscription, "In God We Trust." But at the bottom of the Chinese bank note there is this less altruistic footnote, "Counterfeiters shall be decapitated." You see, it's all in the point of view!

When the vaunted German air armada that was to destroy old England finally arrived in vast numbers in the British skies, they were met by a small, but very grim and determined group of British pilots. These pilots had more than personality—they had combat planes manned with six machine guns of high calibre.

What happened when the Germans met these multi-gunned Spitfires will never be remembered by hundreds of Nazi pilots. But history records that the so called great German air machine was completely knocked out of day light flying.

The Germans then took to armorizing their planes as a defense against the British machine gun fire. Since that time the British have mounted eight and even more than eight, machine guns on their fighter planes. And to overcome the armorment that the Germans built into their planes, the British now mount small cannon on their combat ships.

When the knockout blows are administered to Herr Hitler, they will come from the Royal Air Force. And if the present and future pilots of the German Reich could have been with me in Detroit last week and have witnessed the feverish efforts to place airplane motors in rapid mass production, they would have said something like this, "I think I'll enjoy living as much as possible while I'm here to enjoy it."

U. S. NAVY RECRUITING OFFICER PRESENTS APPLICANT WITH NEW "BADGE OF HONOR"

COMMANDER F. K. O'BRIEN, of the U. S. Navy Recruiting Service, is shown here placing the new Navy "Badge of Honor" on the lapel of an applicant for enlistment in the Navy. (Badge shown above at right.) All ambitious young men who apply for service in Uncle Sam's "Two-ocean" Navy, whether accepted or not, are given this new badge as a mark of their patriotism. To learn of the many opportunities the Navy and the Naval Reserve offer, local men of 17 years and over can get the official illustrated free booklet, "Life in the Navy," from this newspaper's Navy Editor.

The other day I was out to the famous River Rouge plant of the Ford Motor Company. Vast as that enterprise is, there are more great buildings in course of construction. And on the other side of Detroit, a great new tank construction project of Chrysler's is completed and in production.

There's always been a great rivalry between the Ford, Chrysler and General Motors plants in Detroit. For the first time there are obvious indications that this old rivalry is being abandoned temporarily in the interests of stimulating production of tanks. And the first overt move came from none other than old Henry Ford.

Ford is greatly increasing the production of tank armament at River Rouge, and has offered steel from his new mills to Chrysler's tank plant. This is the best news from the American industrial world that I have heard since the beginning of the war.

Detroit naturally turns out most of the automotive units for the army. But it appears to be in the cards for Detroit to become the world's leading production center for airplane motors and of medium and heavy tanks.

Some months ago all of the papers in the nation were roaring at the unions for striking for higher wages. No comment on that situation appeared in anything that I wrote. Personally I felt very distressed to have production of such essentials as aircraft tied up as such a time.

But I had learned from a friend in the Office of Production Management something about the prices and conditions of the war contracts let by our government. These outrageous prices and conditions were forced upon our government because American industry refused to accept the contracts save on their own terms. Such are the actualities in our democracy!

Recently you read that a committee of the United States Senate denounced the naval contractors for the enormous profits that they demanded on our naval construction. Well, you haven't heard anything yet. Wait until the public learns the prices of some of the items which are being manufactured for the army.

The New York Times has a famous slogan, "All the news that's fit to print." There are many items of the greatest news significance that are never printed in the New York Times until there is a Senate investigation of some scandalous transactions.

It is not that these things are not known by the editors of the New York Times. I certainly do not pretend to know of things that are unknown to the greatest newspaper on this continent. But apparently such news is considered by the New York Times as "not fit to print." In a way, I think they have something there!

Coming down State Street in Chicago tonight, Mrs. Allen and I passed a blind couple who were singing to the strains of a guitar played by the husband. Putting a small coin into their tin cup, I remarked to Esther, "No one knows how dark it really is."

Esther replied that there was an item in the Chicago paper today which reported the experience of a man out of employment. He complained bitterly because he had no shoes—until he saw a man who had no feet.

How often we are blind to all of the blessings we enjoy unconsciously. And thank goodness, the greatest blessing, that of happiness, can be enjoyed by the very poor. I had a comforting feeling that the blind couple WERE happy.

Cousin Ed Holcomb recently disgorged a huge purse and extracted therefrom a dollar and fifty cents which he turned over to us, and we in turn turned it over to either Horn, Andrew or Greenfield.

Smile!
and the World Smiles with You!"

"The Voice With a Smile" is contagious—it makes friends—it's a real social and business asset. Many times people form their impression of you by your voice and the manner in which you telephone.

What are the points of a pleasing telephone personality? To speak pleasantly, of course. And to be considerate and courteous—such things as answering promptly, talking directly into the mouthpiece in a normal tone of voice, and hanging up the receiver gently when the conversation is completed.

A free people's strongest defense against dangerous ISMS is EDUCATION. Our public school systems are built and supported in a typical American way, through voluntary taxes paid by America's industries and workers.

The Mississippi Beer Industry is proud of the part it plays in helping to support this bulwark of enlightenment against foreign doctrines.

More than $300,000 of the $1,090,254.14 in taxes paid to the State by the beer industry last year went to public education—enough money to give a year's schooling to 10,000 Mississippi boys and girls.

"KEEP GRENADA GROWING," VOTE FOR BOND ISSUE TODAY---FRIDAY

Seen,
Heard
and Told

By The Editor

V

There is little to be added to what we have already in this issue, about the bond issue election. We do say this, however, that it is our considered view that this election should "carry," that Grenada needs additional pay-rolls, and that the best way to get them is to expand something that has proven successful—like the Grenada Industries, Inc.—than to fool with something that we know not of.

We have a lot of foolishness in this paper, we grant. But it is not that kind of writing when we write "Vote For the Bond Issue." The committee working with the City Council has investigated the financial statement of the company and unanimously recommended to the people of Grenada that the proposition is a good one.

Right after you eat your breakfast and finish reading the GCW, put on your wraps (for it may be cold) and go to the Mayor's office and vote. Make THAT the first order of the day.

As it requires a majority of those qualified to vote, to vote "yes," the election may be lost by the failure of people (who are heartily in favor of the proposition) to come out and register their approval on the ballot. Therefore, make it YOUR personal business to see that YOU vote.

The boys and girls at the hosiery mill, most of whom are doing a dam- site better than they had been doing had the mill not been located here, should see their aunts and uncles, their landlords and their friends and urge them to vote. For, after all, the expansion is primarily for the benefit of the young men and the young women of this community.

Mr. "Red" Lester, popular manager of Grenada Drug Company, made a business trip to Jackson Thursday.

Belmont now has all standard types of clerks, blond, brunettes and red heads.

Aint they sweet.

His friends will be delighted to hear that Leon Geeslin, who underwent intensive training in a Memphis technical school for three months, has now secured a fine position with the Vee-co aircraft people in Nashville and the GCW joins these other friends in wishing for him much success in his new work.

Revell requests us to announce that some gentleman went into his Bull Pen and stole a stove with but three legs, and that the new leg has been received from the factory, and he further announces that he hopes the man will come in and call for the leg, knowing as an experienced stove merchant that a three-legged stove, like a three-legged man or a three-legged mule, is not much good.

Mrs. Leslie Bowen has served out her first year's subscription and must have liked it for she renewed recently.

We changed our mailing list the other day and added about twenty new subscribers, and were happy to mark up nearly sixty renewers. These figures would not be impressive for the New York World, the Tupelo Journal or the Commercial Appeal, but they do indicate the proper trend, that is upward.

I finally found out why they call Wells Moon Wells. I thought until recently that it was Bilbo Doxey Wells, but it is really Moon Wells.

Babe Costillow and Brother Rook just dropped in to see if the GCW was still functioning.

Chester Brown, who is visiting his mother, also honored our new place with an appreciated call.

Grandpaw and Grandmaw Biddy are spelling that young 'un already.

Well, our prayers were answered, you all kept Horn and Harry out of devilmint last Friday and Saturday by shooting in enough jobs to keep their minds and hands occupied, but not quite enough to keep Andrew from the football game in Memphis.

The hosiery mill has proven to be a great success to Grenada. The management has done far more than it promised to do. Then why not go out Friday and vote for the bonds (which will be paid back by the mill) which will be used to create more floor space and employ more young men and young women?

John Milner looks right nice in his new suit and new hat.

Red Briscoe Writes About "Welcome" Signs

Dear Editor:

Have you seen, purely by chance, the new WELCOME signs that were recently erected by the City Administration, one of them at the Peavine Crossing north and the other at Pecan Street south on highway 51; these signs are four feet by ten feet and erected in the most dismal places that could later be found on the highway and they are so miserably small that a tourist would have to come to a complete stop to see what is on them.

In my opinion these small insignificant signs are really detrimental and shameful to our Grenada and to its civic spirited citizens, these signs were erected for the benefit of tourists and such a cheap and empty advertisement surely make the impression that our Grenada is just as dead and as cheap as these signs are. It is a thought that these signs should be immediately removed and real actual advertising welcome signs erected in the appropriate places on the highway.

Towns much smaller and less civic inclined have regular billboard welcoming signs on highway 51 and why can't we have a billboard neon sign erected on the north side and on the south side, this can be done for a small amount per month as rental service from advertising companies on a turn key job basis; it appears to me that the two most appropriate locations on the highway for real signs would be on the north side to have one erected in the old highway that leads to the right at Spring Lake, on the south side one erected just immediately north of the Tie Plant intersection on the Ross hill.

I am sure that the Administration means well in their convictions but surely they realize that such a miserable failure in attempting to advertise Grenada is really noticed by the average person, and those that are not familiar with who is responsible for such a blunder might be inclined to think that our civic clubs and the public spirited citizens had a hand in such cheap inappropriate advertising of our Grenada that we are all so fond of.

The administration should immediately remove and completely destroy these signs and never mention to any one that such a sign of its size was erected, if the City of Grenada is NOT able to erect a sign that will represent what Grenada is, let's don't advertise at all until we do become able, what do you think?

Respectfully yours,
C. W. BRISCOE.

W. O. Geeslin Takes Over Management of Laundry

Effective November 3, Mr. W. O. Geeslin, well known businessman of Grenada and former county supervisor from District Four, took over the management of Grenada Steam Laundry and Cleaners and will, in the future, have full charge of the operation of this business which was started by the late Earl Bailey with a small washing machine on the back porch of his home.

Mr. Geeslin states that he will appreciate the continuance of patronage of the old patrons and solicits a trial from those who have not patronized this laundry in the past.

BOARD ADJOURNS UNTIL 15TH

After transacting routine business on Monday and Tuesday, the county board of supervisors adjourned until Saturday, November 15, at which time the sheriff will make his annual settlement.

COTTON GINNING REPORT

Census report shows that 4,284 bales of cotton were ginned in Grenada County, Miss., from the crop of 1941 prior to Oct. 18, 1941 as compared with 3,271 bales for the crop of 1940.

DUPLICATE CLUB MEETS

The charming living room of the home of Mrs. Roger Burt was the scene of a bridge club meeting Tuesday afternoon when the Duplicate Club met for games.

Lovely autumn flowers, chrysanthemums and roses, were arranged about the reception rooms, lending their beauty to the well arranged setting for three tables. Only regular members were guests.

Mesdames R. C. Trusty and Ben Townes won high score rating and four members tied for second score.

At intermission, Mrs. Burt served dainty sandwiches, cookies and Coca-Cola.

INFORMATION REGARDING EXPANSION OF HOSIERY MILL

BY THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

1. The new building will have 20,000 to 25,000 square feet of floor space. (The original building contains 18,238 square feet.)
2. The money received from the bonds will be applied to the cost of the new building and the Hosiery Mill will pay all costs in excess of the amount furnished by the City. The entire property will be owned by the city.
3. The Hosiery Mill will equip the new building with lights, boilers, machinery, etc., at their expense, which will represent a large investment.
4. The new building will be leased from the City by the Hosiery Mill for a rental sufficient to retire the bonds and pay the interest. This expansion will add much to the income of Grenada but will not cost us anything as the Hosiery Mill will, as the bonds mature, retire indebtedness with their rent.
5. All plans, details, and expenditures will be approved by the Mayor, the Board of Aldermen, with the advice of a Committee, appointed at a citizens meeting, composed of Messrs. J. B. Perry, Sr., John T. Keeton, I. J. Doak, and J. H. Oliver.
6. The Election Day is Friday, November 7th.
7. The law requires, before the bonds can be issued, that 508 votes be cast IN FAVOR OF issuing them. This number is 50 percent of the qualified voters.

To The Citizens Of Grenada

The RED CROSS needs you today more than ever before. Financial support for this work must come from membership funds received during the Annual Roll Call, to be held from November 11 to 30.

The need for Red Cross relief to the victims of war still continues. The need for Red Cross services to our people at home is increasing rapidly in line with our national defense program. Practical assistance to soldiers and sailors preparing to defend America's shores has become the most important task of the American Red Cross in Grenada County and throughout the nation. All the many branches of the organization are contributing time and effort to this program of aid to the Soldier Boys.

We are calling upon every resident in Grenada to enroll during the period of November 11 to 30 as a Red Cross member through the local chapter in order that "our community" may contribute its full share to this important humanitarian program which means so much to our homes, our family, and to the Boys in Camp.

It is our intention to have the VOLUNTEER WORKERS out working on the morning of November 11, so please remain at home, if possible, until she calls on you.

Thanking you for your kind cooperation, to make Grenada ONE HUNDRED PERCENT FOR RED CROSS, I am

Gratefully,
Harry Burkley, Chairman
Grenada County Chapter

It is a stubborn fact, well known to everyone, that it is necessary to subsidize any new industry, whether in one way or another; but in this case of the extension of facilities at the hosiery mill, all we people of Grenada do is lend our good credit.

Thomas Watson McCaula and I both may have sinned Sunday when he paid in a dollar fifty and I took it, but, I can say for myself, I have sinned greater than that on Sundays.

Who remember a Uncle Bill McCaula, T. W.'s father, and his controversy with Senator Vardaman about that cow

The old lady has been laid up some recently, and the GCW is worse off than Revell's three-legged stove.

Do not forget two things tomorrow (Friday): to vote for the bond issue, and to encourage the band which will "come out" in the new uniforms.

Did we mention that F. C. Thompson of Biloxi, recently renewed? He leads a grand life down the Coast and has nothing to worry about.

The readers' attention is invited to an article concerning the proposed bond issue by the committee. None of those fellows got where they are by taking in Confederate money. They are about as safe and conservative a bunch as can be found. Then, too, if there should be taxes to pay for these bonds, these gentlemen will pay a very considerable part of them.

The ever-increasing aid of America and the ever-tightening British and American blockade and embargoes are inexorably choking the little man with the funny, moustache.

Durrow Horn just brought in Frank Peacock, a negro man who, as a boy, worked for me in the country. He got drunk in Grenada and I stood for about half of his fine until "Sady" What makes me remember him is this: During the '30 (I think it was) flood, Mabel and our two girls went from our country home in the edge of the Delta to the hills at Water Valley, leaving our two little boys, Whyte, Jr., and Andrew, me and Frank to look after things in case the levee broke and came over us. It rained every day. Time was heavy on our hands. So we taught Frank to play auction bridge, and being smart, he learned quickly and was an excellent partner during the dreary days and nights. The four of us had some fine games.

Our old friend, Brandy Morris, came by just now with Lewis Moore. Lewis wants to have the GCW give Brandy a page write-up, and in fact Brandy justifies such a splurge, but we have so many ads this week, we will have to postpone the page, and content ourselves by saying that Brandy is a grand old character and is a fine paper knife sharpener, and we wish him many years of happiness and paper knife sharpening.

Officers Start War On Thieves

Due to the great amount of rural theft of cattle, sheep, hogs, poultry, meat and other products, the officials of this and other counties are banding together with the aid of the Union Tattoo Registering Association, Protective Service system in a renewed effort against farm thieves.

The farmers have tattoo brands which are registered with the sheriffs and buyers. Each brand being different gives the officers and the officials something definite to look for and enables them to return the property to its rightful owners. These marks are placed on with tattoo markers and can not be removed and will remain even after cooking.

As Sheriff of Grenada County, I wish to urge every farmer to adopt this method in this state-wide campaign to stop thievery. This service cooperates with the officers and officials of the state and offers the farmers protection of stolen property.

Mr. M. H. Kimbrell, State District Manager, and his representatives are here and will call on each farmer. This system has proven successful all over the state and has reduced thievery a great percent to what it was three years ago.

Hoffa Urges People to Vote

Grenada citizens, by voting for the bond issue Friday, will have gone a long stride forward in steps of continued progress. ALL COME OUT AND VOTE, preachers, lawyers, doctors, merchants, mechanics, carpenters, laborers, lumbermen and all others will be benefited by carrying this election overwhelmingly in favor of the bonds for the hosiery mill addition.

W. B. HOFFA.

So far, Grenada Bulldogs have not lost a game to a team in its own district, glory be.

Wonder what became of the Vocational School? Is it just another pipe dream? Are we going to continue indefinitely to turn out boys and girls who know nothing that is useful to do with their hands, the members that God Almighty intended them to earn their living with? Why does Grenada START so many things, then promptly forget MOST of them?

This newspaper is not going to let its readers forget for very long the proposition that it is silly to teach ONLY the minds of the youth. SOME people make their living with their minds, but MOST of them make their livings with their hands. We do not want to have to start all this argument and dissension again, but will do it unless we can see some "signs," however faint the signs may be.

Looks like CHIT Hamby, (better known as WPA Hamby) is sitting on top of the list in Grenada County since Roll-em Wall has left the State WPA Hamby has two senators and one congressman to his credit now. Also WPA Hamby is a World War buddy of mine.

Aint they sweet.

Committee Explains Hosiery Mill Proposition

On the proposed addition to the Hosiery Mill for which election will be held November 7th, the following facts might be of interest to the Tax Payers of Grenada.

The first reason for this, is to give employment to our young folks who leaving high school want to begin earning a living. There is no other industry in or near Grenada that can give them work, and we owe them something. How can we ever develop Grenada if the people of this age must leave home in order to find a living?

This industry has a payroll of over $200,000.00 per year, by far the largest we have, and it is not a sweat shop, but the work is carried on under best conditions for both the comfort and health of the employees.

The Company has ready sale for its products, and does not require any financing or other help from the citizens of Grenada, therefore its continued and successful operation is assured so far as any other business enterprise.

By the proposed addition from 100 to 140 people will be employed as early as it can be placed in operation and employees trained for the work. This will add more than $100,000.00 to the yearly payroll.

The Company will pay monthly as a rental for the new buildings, a sum sufficient to pay off the bonds as they fall due; so that no added taxes will be needed from property holders.

The people of Grenada own the land and buildings on which this industry operates, but it is only a fraction of the amount of money invested in machinery and equipment.

One question often asked is "what could the City do with the plant should the industry close down." That cannot be answered at present except to say that there is no indication that it shall ever close, unless the women quit wearing silk hose, even then, other kinds of hose can be made on the same machines.

Every business that begins must face a possible failure or shut down. If we were to get another industry in Grenada, it would be now, would have to build up a market for its goods and train workers. The Hosiery Mill has already done this, so is much less likely to close up shop than any other plant we might get.

The committee who have been working to bring about this addition to the plant feel that it is a good thing for Grenada, they have used every precaution to make it safe, and they unanimously recommend it to the Citizens of Grenada.

J. B. Perry, Chairman; J. T. Keeton, J. H. Oliver, and I. J. Doak.

Groce Carver Reelected President of Bureau

Groce Carver was unanimously re-elected President of the Grenada County Farm Bureau. Guy James was elected Vice President and Mrs. S. E. Gillon was re-elected Secretary. Mr. Carver won the membership contest and was awarded the pure-bred Jersey bull offered by Mr. George F. Kraft.

Grenada Cannot Stand Still

A community, like an individual or a business, can not stand still. It must progress or retrogress.

Every individual in Grenada wants Grenada, our home town, to make progress, but few of us are willing to do anything to cause it to progress.

Communities do not progress that way, unless, perchance, the communities are in the midst of virgin land, virgin timber or untapped natural resources.

Grenada has passed the time when it can depend upon virgin land and virgin timber and, therefore, its people must exert themselves to initiate progress.

Too many of us are willing, like the fledgling with mouth agape, to wait for somebody else to drop the "worms" in our mouths and are not willing to get out with a spade and dig for the "worms."

There is no time better than tomorrow (Friday) for Grenada people to bestir themselves and, by so doing, help the community. If each individual sits down and permits "George" to do it, it will not be done, and another opportunity will be gone perhaps forever.

Build Planes and Ships

It is our candid opinion that the national administration should devote more of its energies toward creating planes and ships than tanks and other things that move upon Mother Earth, at least for the immediate future.

However great a number of tanks that we, build, there is no available shipping to get them where they can be effective. There is no port, outside of England, where cargoes can be unloaded, for the entire continent of Europe, with the exception of England, is in control of the Axis powers. England at the present time has no more use for tanks than a hog has for a side saddle, for England can not use the large number that it already possesses.

But naval vessels and bombers and fighter planes are in a different category. The planes can be flown to the places where they are needed, while the ships can help tighten the control that the Royal Navy and the U. S. Navy already has on the water.

However much land Hitler may occupy, he will meet ultimate defeat if his enemies can get and keep control of the air, as they already have control of the seas. With adequate control of the air and the seas, Hitler's enemies can permit him to stew in his own juice. He may wiggle and squirm, but an impenetrable blockade will finally defeat him. Such a blockade can be obtained by our helping Britain obtain the mastery of the air and water.

The Dam and Number Eight

A great many of our people are violently opposed to the building of the dam on the Yalobusha River but, unfortunately for them and for their natural desire to stay on the property they now own, it is extremely unlikely that the government will let their objections thwart the comprehensive flood control plans that have already been studied and approved by the army engineers. We say unfortunately for it will indeed be unfortunate for people to be dispossessed of their homes against their wills, however meritorious the purposes are.

But, irrespective of what our local people want, it is highly probable that the dam WILL be built, even if it is not built until after the war when the government will seek to absorb the unemployed in approved public works, such as the Yalobusha dam.

Assuming that the dam is built, there will be an immense area of cutover land in the Yalobusha, Tallahatchie and Quiver river bottoms—most of which will be contributory to the traffic on No. 8 Highway—brought into cultivation and settled by homeseekers.

The gap between Grenada and Minter City—in the very heart of the area which will be redeemed should the dam be built—should be completed, and every Grenada citizen should (as soon as the bond issue for the hosiery mill is carried) get busy and stay busy upon the proposition.

Naturally, the writer feels a "fatherly" interest in this gap because he, as supervisor, built a low water, dry weather road (since improved by Mr. Elliott) which served to connect in a partial way the stray ends of No. 8.

Human Rights and Property Rights

The government that has the power and that exercises the power to draft young men and send them to possible death or possible mutilation in war, should also have the power and exercise the power to draft other essentials in an all-out effort, sometimes called total war. It should draft money. It should draft munition factories. It should draft mines. It should draft railroads. It should draft power systems. It should draft shipyards. It should draft aircraft factories.

Drop down to the bus station sometime when newly inducted men are grouped for shipment to Camp Shelby. Most of them are poor negroes and poor white boys. In the last analysis, what real difference, from an economic standpoint, would the average of these boys see whether this country was governed by Roosevelt, Hitler or Stalin? Most of them never had anything, have little now and face prospects of having little in the future.

What of capital? Has capital nothing to defend? Would capital be better or worse under Hitler? Would those who own the factories rather their property be commandeered by Hitler or be drafted, as the boys are drafted, for we believe that HUMAN rights are at least equal to PROPERTY rights.

There is ample precedent for drafting factories, for the government drafted the railroads during the first World War.

We hate to see human beings, supposedly made in God's own image, receive a poorer deal from the common government than property receives from that source.

Congressman Jamie Whitten

Grenada County people should at last feel that they, too, have a Congressman since Jamie Whitten of Cascilla, won hands down over a worthy opponent in the congressional district that Watl Doney so ably represented many years. It is mighty nearly a toss-up which people are proudest, the freestaters or Grenada County people.

His father sent Jamie to college two years, then Doc Little, Jamie's great uncle, said it was about his time to take this fledgling under his wing and Doc has practically "adopted" Jamie ever since and, except in the presence of Guy Whitten, claims Jamie as "my boy". And Doc Little has had a great deal to do with the successful career of the new Congressman.

Needless to say the Grenada County Weekly voices the sentiment of the people of Grenada County in wishing Congressman Whitten a continuation of his brilliant career.

Armistice Day

There is no use in getting maudlin and sentimental about Armistice Day next Tuesday. It means nothing. It is but a hollow mockery to those who died "to save Democracy," and to "end all wars."

To us who were in the last war, Armistice Day means only the day that closed the fight to protect the investment of international bankers in the Allied cause; it means the day that marked the beginning of a breathing spell during which the European powers could start a greater war.

Inasmuch as the holiday means nothing, we think that it should be abandoned as a holiday. If it meant that the sons of those who fought in 1914-1918 would be safe from "all wars," we should go on celebrating the day. This is not true. The sons of those who brought about Armistice Day are in a greater war than the one which Armistice Day closed.

Armistice Day is just another day to us.

Nobody Knows

Nobody knows what the industrialists of the North and East are charging the government for trucks, guns, planes, tanks and other implements of war.

No Congressman or Senator—not even Drew Pearson and his partner Allen—have dared to disclose the costs of these items of equipment.

We venture the assertion that, should the truth ever be told, there would arise a howl of indignation that would make the howls against the striking workmen sound like a turtle dove cooing to his mate in the moonlight.

We believe that the industrialists of the North and East deliberately egg on the controversies between the laborers and the soldiers—both of whom represent the poorer classes—so as to divert public attention from themselves.

If the government sets up intricate organizations to smooth out the relations between employers and employees, it should also set up organizations to see that the people who pay the vast tax bills are not gutted by the owners of the huge factories.

It is all right to seek to regulate labor, but capital should not escape entirely from government regulations. BOTH should be regulated.

Join Uncle Sam's Navy

The United States Navy is greatly in need of alert and intelligent young men to man the rapidly growing units of the soon-to-be 2-ocean navy.

At the present time and, perhaps for many months if not several years, the United States Navy is America's greatest protection. It is indeed the first line of defense.

The physical standards and the mental standards required for admission in the U. S. Navy are materially higher than those required by the U. S. Army; and the opportunities offered by the United States Navy are correspondingly greater.

From a standpoint of physical comfort the Navy offers better quarters and better conditions for work than any other branch of the military service. At least a fellow is never more than one hundred yards from the kitchen, and he always has a dry bed when retiring time comes. No eating in the rain or sleeping in pup tents, no snakes and bugs and mosquitoes for the gob!!

We urge the young men who read this to investigate the opportunities not only of service to America but service to themselves, to see the Recruiting Officer in Grenada, or mail back the coupon on the ad in this issue for a booklet, or, in any way they see fit, to "look into" the U. S. Navy as a place for them to serve their country and evade the draft.

Do this today. It costs nothing to investigate.

Red Cross Proclamation

WHEREAS conditions in the world today have necessitated an unprecedented peacetime extension of our Army, Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard; and

WHEREAS our national civilian defense program necessitates a strengthening of all those services essential to the public health and welfare; and

WHEREAS no section of the United States is free from the threat of natural catastrophe or disaster, such as flood, hurricane, tornado, drought, earthquake, fire, explosion, epidemic; and

WHEREAS the international situation still continues to cause intense distress among innocent victims, making essential American aid to suffering humanity abroad; and

WHEREAS the American Red Cross is the only organization in our land equipped and ready, first, to assist, advise and otherwise serve the men of our armed forces and their loved at home; second, to carry on in our own and every other community such indispensable welfare programs as Red Cross Public Health Nursing, Instruction in Home Nursing, First Aid, Water Safety and all kinds of Accident Prevention, and through the Junior Red Cross in the schools, to act as the medium for service by our young people; third, to render protection and relief in case of the afore-mentioned disasters, and fourth to undertake the administration of American aid to stricken non-combatants and refugees abroad;

THEREFORE I R. W. Sharp, Mayor of Grenada proclaim the period of the 1941 American Red Cross Annual Roll Call, from November 11 to November 30, a time during which the public spirited people of this community, both men and women, boys and girls, should make every effort to support and strengthen the Red Cross by enrolling through our local chapter, as members of the Red Cross, or by renewing their memberships in it; and I further proclaim that it is the sense of all of us who are residents of Grenada County that our membership enrollment in the Red Cross must be larger than ever this year, in order to enable this great national organization of ours to meet whatever demands may be made upon it.

DYRE-KENT GRID PICK

Benny Cohen had a perfect score in last Saturday's game with the exception of two ties. Benny gets the free drinks for the week. Scrapper Lockett still leads the parade for the free ticket to the Ole Miss-State game. Those that follow in the order named are Lambert Gammons, Hugh Ketchum, John Mitchell, Sam J. Simmons, Jr., L. C. Angevine. We might put in a plug for the Ole Miss-State game. If they get by L. S. U. and Auburn this Saturday, the Southeastern Conference championship will hinge on the "Battle of Mississippi" to be played in Oxford on November 29th. Our pick is on the left.

MISS WEST HONORED BY MRS. CAROTHERS

The charming home of Mrs. Andrew Carothers was the scene Tuesday evening of a lovely courtesy party honoring Miss Mary Louise West, popular bride-elect of Ensign Linden Wright, whose wedding will be solemnized November 18th at a beautiful eventide ceremony in the state's First Presbyterian Church of Grenada.

The spacious living room of the Carothers home which extends across most of the front portion, was artistically decorated with beautiful fall flowers. Bowls of snowy white chrysanthemums and arrangements of exquisite radiance roses placed among the many perfect gems of carefully selected antiques created a truly lovely setting for the bevy of attractive young guests.

Mrs. Carothers received her guests at the door. For this occasion she wore a becoming dress of blue and Miss West was lovely in a trousseau dress of winter red.

The evening's fun was based on poetry and romance. The hostess had appropriate verse to be read aloud by the guests and each guest had a tiny scroll "fortune" written in verse which caused much merriment.

Several games of Continental Rummy were enjoyed and the prize, a sachet bouquet in attractive box was given to Miss Annie Anderson. Another contest, a bird romance, was played, and Miss Martha Hoffa received a beautiful handkerchief for answering most correctly the names to be supplied. A game of romance, each guest having the name of a famous lover pinned on their back, caused much speculation and fun. In the contest "Names of Great Loves," Mrs. H. D. Lane, Jr., received a charming prize of perfume.

The dining room, which was opened only at the announcement that refreshments were to be served, was truly nuptial in effect. The table, covered with a handsome banquet cloth of Italian cut work, had for its centerpiece a low bowl filled with prize white chrysanthemums, on either side of which tall white tapers in silver candlesticks cast a soft light over the whole room.

Tiny bride dolls on place cards marked the guests' places at the table and a bride and groom tableau marked the honoree's place, also that of Miss Ann Neely, another bride-elect and guest.

Suspended from the chandelier was a lovely paper "wedding bell." From this trailed white satin ribbons to which tiny sprays of valley lilies were tied and they served as pulls for the scroll on which the guests' "fortunes" were written.

Mrs. Carothers served a beautiful plate containing chicken salad, buttered wafers, pickles and olives and hot tea. Dainty miniature brides cakes resembling an open white rose, were placed on the table and were served there.

Attending this lovely affair were Misses West, the honoree, Martha Hoffa, Eloise Wilkins, Martha Webb, Anna Rose and Marguerite Finney, Edith Penn, Ann Neely, Martha Bess Brown, Annie Anderson, and Mesdames H. D. Lane, Jr., Ben Adams and Harry Adams.

Miss Robbie Doak, who was accompanied by her sister, Miss Juliette, returned from a lengthy stay at Hot Springs, Ark. the past week-end. Miss Robbie appears greatly improved.

Miss Adele Hoffa went to Memphis last Friday to visit her sister, Mrs. R. P. Lake. Mrs. Lake was hostess at her beautiful home to many members of the D. A. R. and U. D. C. organizations, at a gala reception on Saturday afternoon and evening. Miss Adele assisted with the reception.

Mr. and Mrs. Parrish Taylor, of Birmingham, were guests of their mother, Mrs. Gertrude Marders on Sunday last.

Mrs. A. W. George, who is Diocesan Custodian of United Thank Offering Boxes for Episcopal Council of Church Women of Mississippi, left Saturday in company with the Diocesan President and other state officers for Charleston, S. C. to attend Synod. The Rev. C. S. Liles, Rector of All Saints' Episcopal Church, Grenada, left Sunday afternoon to attend this same assembly.

TWENTIETH CENTURY CLUB

The membership of the Study Club of the Twentieth Century Club assembled at the lovely home of Mrs. H. O. Bland Tuesday afternoon at three thirty. Twenty-six ladies were present.

Mrs. J. L. Cooley, Jr., was co-hostess. The guests were invited to leave their wraps in the upstairs guest room and then reassembled in the charming living room and adjoining dining room. Lovely garden flowers, chrysanthemums predominating, were placed at points of vantage, and chairs were arranged so that all could see and hear the members on the program.

Mrs. J. K. Avent, president and Mrs. T. B. Revell, secretary, soon finished the business session, and Miss Elizabeth Jones, librarian of Grenada Public Library, told of the purchase of books by the club, for the library and exhibited several books and explained how helpful they are in her work.

The program was based on "Revolutionary Ideas in Twentieth Century Europe." Mrs. H. L. Honeycutt's paper was written on Ranschnig's "The Voice of Destruction."

Mrs. R. A. Clanton reviewed Wolfe's book, "The Imperial Soviets." Both of these interesting papers were food for very serious thought dealing with the ambitions of both Hitler and Stalin.

A short informal session led by Mrs. Avent and Miss Lucile Owens preceded the serving of refreshments consisting of fruit salad on lettuce leaf, wafers, dainty sandwiches and Russian tea.

★ City Laws Require Return of Milk Bottles

Here's How To Help All Dairies

KEEP MILK COSTS DOWN!

Now, more than ever, it is important for everyone to do everything that he can to conserve materials of all kinds. One of the costly items in bringing you fresh, sweet milk is BOTTLES. They're expensive! And each quart of milk, naturally, must bear its share of this high "bottle-cost"—computed on the number of times each bottle is used.

It is the constant aim of Grenada Farms Dairy to deliver fine, rich, high-quality milk as economically as possible. Even though the special type of bottles used by Grenada Farms Dairy is built to make many "trips", "bottle-cost" is an extremely important item. That's why it is so important that you return all bottles promptly and help us keep down the cost of milk.
